

Panel Mouldings, Quadrants and Dado Rails

Traditionally, a dado rail provided the wall with protection from furniture. In more modern homes dado rails can be used to break up large plain areas to create a more decorative look.

Panel moulds when co-ordinated with quadrants can effectively be used to frame an architectural feature or painting. The versatility of panel mould permits the creation of visually stunning features within large open areas.